MAD RIVER UNION

MCKINLEYVILLE – After dozens of meetings, surveys and public scoping sessions held over a period of two years, the Humboldt County Planning Department has released a draft of an ordinance dictating land use and building standards for the McKinleyville Town Center.

Planners are asking that the public review the draft document and provide input. A special open house hosted by the McKinleyville Municipal Advisory Committee and Planning Department will be held Saturday, Nov. 13 from 9 a.m. to noon at the McKinleyville Activity Center, 1705 Gwin Rd. at Pierson Park in McKinleyville. Attendees can stop by any time during the open house to review draft maps and ordinance language, ask questions and give input.

The McKinleyville Town Center stretches from Pierson Park to McKinleyville Avenue and from Railroad Drive to an area just south of Hiller Road, including the commercial areas near Burger King.

The largest undeveloped area is located behind the McKinleyville Shopping Center.

‘Sense of place’

The purpose of the proposed ordinance is to create a focal point for McKinleyville with a village-like atmosphere.

Board of Supervisors will resume in-person meetings in January, 2022

Daniel Mintz
MAD RIVER UNION

HUMBOLDT – The county's Board of Supervisors once again struggled with the uncertainties of the pandemic era in considering whether to resume in-person meetings but decided to do so in early January.

At their October 26 meeting, supervisors supported a return to in-person meetings while retaining a teleconferencing component for public commenters.

County Clerk Kathy Hayes said the equipment needed to combine teleconferencing with in-person attendance is on order but recent shipping issues complicate its delivery.

Early January is the goal for implementing the hybrid approach.

The county's most intense COVID-19 surge is subsiding but County Administrative Officer Elishia Hayes said that precautionary measures will still be needed if meetings resume in January.

She noted that 41 people were attending the virtual meeting and a similar number of in-person attendees would be "a crowd that will need to be managed in terms of social distancing and masking."

Although a recent COVID-19 surge is subsiding, Hayes told supervisors that the county is in the "red tier" federal category,

Supes stick to rejection of BL cannabis farm permit

Daniel Mintz
MAD RIVER UNION

BLUE LAKE – Last spring, an impasse between cannabis farm operators in Blue Lake and their neighbors was apparently solved – the operators of a 10,000 square-foot farm would enter the county's cultivation site relocation program, find an alternative site and be able to double the farming area.

But that plan didn't work out and at its October 26 meeting, the Board of Supervisors held firm on an original decision to disallow Rocci and Laura Costa to carry out cannabis farming at the Blue Lake site.

Located at the end of Warren Creek Road, the cannabis farm site has a long and notorious history. For years, when it was under the control of a Costa family relative, it was the subject of neighbors' complaints due to nuisance and public safety issues.

The relocation plan hinged on use of a Honeydew property, which didn't pan out. Unsuccessful at securing an alternative site, the Costas were again asking supervisors to reverse a Planning Commission decision to deny a cannabis cultivation permit for the Blue Lake site.

Laura Costa told supervisors that residents of the area have made false claims about her and her husband and are actually biased against cannabis.

"Their last resort is to use slander and fear as a weapon against us," she said. "They have admitted that their campaign to discredit us personally was worth the outcome and regardless of the fact that, by their admission, it got

COVID upsurge at McKinleyville High School

"It's definitely a struggle having COVID during our seasons because it can hold a lot of players back from enjoying the sports they love to play," explained Varsity Volleyball player Raina Ausburn.

This past week McKinleyville High School had a COVID-19 upsurge with students after the Homecoming festivities.

Student athletes as well as students from our student body have tested positive. Student athletes had games canceled because of the outbreak and over 200 kids were tested in three days.

Going into Homecoming, students knew what they were getting into regarding COVID-19 and many were understanding of the testing.

Some student athletes were not happy with this though, because even if they did not go to the dance, they are still close contacts. The football team had to put off practice for a week and reschedule a game.

Jack Clancy, one of the Varsity Football captains and quarterback, said, "Not practicing made it harder to come back, it threw off the whole routine."

The football players felt that they were knocked behind the other teams because of the lack of practice for a week.

Overall, students were OK with the testing while some athletes felt it just pushed them back in their ability to play sports.

McKinleyville wraps up fall sports season

With winter sports on the cusp of beginning, and fall sports coming to a climactic conclusion, I thought it would be a worthwhile exercise revisiting all of the different teams and checking in on their respective records.

MHS football was sidelined last week due to a COVID outbreak that forced the team to cancel their game against Hoopa, one that has major implications in terms of playoff seeding implications.

McKinleyville's status as a contender appears to be up in the air at the moment, as with the unpredictable nature of their schedule, home field advantage during the playoffs is definitely in question.

The girls golf season has come to a close, and winning the entire HDNL was McKinleyville's own Sofie Sundberg. Continuing the momentum of an already stellar start to the season, Sundberg finished her wire to wire victory with a total of 588 strokes; 63 strokes better than the runner up.

In volleyball, McKinleyville qualified for the NCS playoffs, receiving the number 14 seed. They play number 3 seeded University on Wednesday, in what should be a very exciting contest.

Finally, after capping off an impressive season with a huge 2-0 win against Arcata, the MHS girls soccer team finished the year with a record of 11-4-3. Depending on how records shake out in the coming days, the Panthers may have done enough to clinch a top five seed for sections.

Autumn in the Jacoby Creek School Garden

This week's column comes courtesy of Sue Moore, a Bayside resident who first started volunteering in 2008 and has been the organizing force behind the Jacoby Creek School Garden since 2012:

Drought has never been more on my mind as this fall. Aside from the garden's poorer soil quality, the "wetland pond" in the fields below the garden dried up completely for the first time. To my relief and delight October's early showers spurred growth of new grass for the various species of geese and other birds that flock to the surrounding fields, and today the pond has water and birds.

On returning to the garden this fall, the children immediately observed that the pond was dry. Depending on their ages they have different "academic" knowledge of weather and climate, however, their eyes told them that something was amiss. Personally experienced and observed knowledge form the underlying basis of children's education.

It's never been more crucial to provide rich ecological experiences, answer children's questions, value their curiosity and interest, and spur them to lifelong scientific learning. As a Humanities major, I am not a scientist, but early outdoor experiences coupled with a multidisciplinary K-12 science education provided an invaluable foundation.

Most of all, I learned early in life how to garden, harvest and prepare home grown produce, build a compost heap, support local birds and wildlife, and grasp a sense of ecological complexity.

A 10,000-square-foot school garden located on an increasingly wind impacted ocean aspect is small, but it provides a hands-on space for children to work together as they weed, move soil, build compost piles, gather seeds, and eventually plant for the next season. It's also where they eat apples, sit with classmates to chat, listen to birds, sketch plants and insects, and be in an outdoor educational space.

Five years ago, the garden shifted to accommodate increasingly diverse coastal California native shrubs and annual plants. Propagating shrubs and planting seeds for spring plant sales have become integral to the garden cycle of activities, and a source for fund raising.

I'm deeply grateful to all who donated for plants, photo cards, and seeds this past year. The typical fund-raising opportunities were not pandemic friendly! Lemonade and baked goods in 2022? And we are excited about the upcoming Bidding for Bayside auction (more info next week) which will help raise funds for several Bayside projects, including garden infrastructure!

Especially enjoyable have been the visitors who explore, ask questions, make suggestions, and provide help and resources. As the pandemic gutted "normal" social opportunities, chatting safely to passersby and those who enjoy sitting on the bench opened a new social world. And now, opening the garden once again to bird watching will brighten winter.

The public is invited to join Redwood Region Audubon Society for Beginning Birdwatching & Project FeederWatch at the Jacoby Creek School Garden in Bayside on Saturday, Nov. 20, drop in, 10 a.m. to noon, and every third Saturday through April 9, 2022.

Everyone is welcome to come watch and learn about birds in an informal setting.

Bring binoculars and be prepared to wear a mask and practice social distancing.

Current federal, state and local COVID-19 guidelines will be followed at all RRAS activities. For more information, contact Denise Seeger, dseeger@gmail.com.

Teen pleads guilty in triple murder

HUMBOLDT COUNTY DISTRICT ATTORNEY’S OFFICE
HUMBOLDT – On Oct. 26, 19-year-old Mauricio Johnson pled guilty before Judge Timothy Canning to three counts of first-degree murder and admitted three special allegations for use of a firearm causing death for the killings of Nikki Metcalf, Margaret Moon, and confidential minor victim Jane Doe, in February of this year, on the Bear River Band of the Rohnerville Rancheria Reservation.

Mauricio Johnson

The prosecution accepted the offer made by Andrea Sullivan, Johnson’s attorney, of 150 years to life in prison. The sentence means the defendant will have a parole hearing in 25 years.

The facts of this case support the defendant’s plea. On the night of Feb. 9, the defendant entered the home of the Nikki Metcalf, Margaret Moon, and Jane Doe with the permission of several of the minors in the home.

Sometime during the night, after most of the occupants were asleep, Nikki discovered the defendant and Jane Doe together in Jane Doe’s bedroom and began to struggle with the defendant. When confronted by Nikki, the defendant pulled a firearm out of his backpack and shot Nikki. The defendant then shot Margaret and Jane Doe. Nikki and Jane Doe died at the scene, and Margaret died shortly after.

If the case had proceeded to trial and a jury found the defendant guilty of the charges above and the additional special allegation of multiple murders, a judge might have sentenced the defendant to life in prison without the possibility of parole.

In agreeing to the plea, the Humboldt County District Attorney’s Office considered several factors, including: 1) the plea satisfies the public safety mission of the Office, 2) a trial would require testimony from young people who have suffered a tragedy, 3) the wishes of family members of the victims, 4) the retention of hope for the positive transformation of a person 18 years of age at the time of their crime, and 5) likely changes to California law.

To clarify two points: Attorneys and victim advocates from the District Attorney’s Office spoke with many members of the victims’ families, friends, and additional members of the community. Understandably, given the terrible harm done by the defendant, the people most affected by the murders expressed differing views on whether to accept the plea or proceed to trial.

On the point about California law, youthful offenders all currently receive a parole hearing in their 25th year of incarceration, unless they are serving life without the possibility of parole. California legislators are seeking to modify the parole eligibility of youthful offenders, so that all would be entitled to a parole hearing regardless of their original sentence.

The defendant’s agreed upon sentence would be the maximum sentence he could receive if the law under consideration takes effect.

Finally, citizens should recognize the difficulty of receiving parole for people guilty of first-degree murder. The Humboldt County District Attorney’s Office attends all parole hearings for murders, to ensure that decision-makers remain fully aware of the substance and significance of the crimes committed.

No dice for suspect when Officer Yahtzee rolls in

HUMBOLDT COUNTY DRUG TASK FORCE

Little Miss Indica could use a friend, good-natured Gage plays well

Remember the seven puppies that were dumped at Cock Robin Island in Loleta last spring? They were so scared and it looked like a daunting task to build their confidence. We are so happy to report that they have now all been adopted!

Chloe was the last one to leave the shelter. We weren't sure how we were ever going to get her to come out of her kennel. Hours and hours of volunteer dedication resulted in finally convincing here that there were some benefits to leaving the kennel and going for walks, especially if that resulted in a chance to play with another dog in the play yard.

Chloe caught the eye of a couple with a very friendly and patient female dog. They met Chloe and agreed to foster her until her spay appointment. By the time Chloe came back in two weeks for her spay, the family had fallen in love and adopted her!

We regularly get happy updates from the adopters of Chloe's sisters and brothers and now, coming full circle, sister Scout has been acting as a mentor to Gypsy, one of our other rescue dogs!

The shelter is filling up again and as always, this would be a good time to adopt! We have a wider selection of dogs right now; even some little dogs.

One smaller dog that could use a friend is our sweet girl Indica. She is about 9 years old and weighs about 25 pounds. Indica came in to the shelter with some mammary tumors that were making her pretty uncomfortable. She has had surgery to remove the ones on one side (your EMF funds at work) and will have the other side done a little later. She is so much happier now! This is an easy-going dog who is happy to go for a walk or snuggle in for some cuddle time. Indica is well housebroken and doesn't mind putting up with the rain to go out and do her business. She came in with another small dog and has been friendly with other dogs that she has met along the way. We would love to find a foster for Indica while she finishes up her medical treatment. We wouldn't be surprised if a foster wanted to adopt once she was ready! If you might be able to open your home to this friendly girl, please contact the shelter at (707) 840-9132. Redwood Pals Rescue has a few dogs at the shelter that need to get out to make room for incoming dogs. Gage is one we've been working with for a while. Gage is a young dog, probably just over a year old. He came to the shelter after living in a car with his former family. It wasn't a great arrangement for any of them and we are hoping Gage can have the chance to enjoy a home of his own! Gage is a nice medium size, about 45 pounds, and is an eager companion. Gage has done well with the other dogs he has met. He is playful and enjoys a good game of fetch or a nice walk. He is a pretty good leash walker and would undoubtedly become even better with more time out of the kennel and some continued training.

Gage is attentive and can sit to be leashed up. He likes his treats but isn't obsessed with them. Gage is a good-natured dog who would love an active friend to take him on outings and adventures. He would love a forever home but we would also consider a foster for Gage. Fosters allow our Redwood Pals dogs to get out of the shelter, have a chance to unwind and gives us more information about how the dogs behave in a home environment. Please contact Redwood Pals Rescue at redwoodpalsrescue@gmail.com or leave a voicemail at (707) 633-8842 for more information about Gage.

Renewable energy pioneer wins lifetime achievement award

HUMBOLDT STATE – Peter Lehman, founding director of Humboldt State University's Schatz Energy Research Center and a professor emeritus of Environmental Resources Engineering at HSU, will receive this year's Lifetime Achievement Award from the California Energy Commission's Clean Energy Hall of Fame.

This award recognizes longtime leaders in clean energy who have had a significant positive impact on the State of California and environmental justice communities.

"I'm honored and proud to receive this lifetime achievement award," says Lehman. "A teacher's best reward is seeing their students succeed and this award is built on the success of many of my students over the years. Some have become my colleagues at the Schatz Center and I couldn't have accomplished what I have without them."

Since 1989, Lehman has been at the forefront of groundbreaking research, from hydrogen fuel cells to renewable microgrid development. Most recently, he served as the lead faculty researcher for the Redwood Coast Airport Microgrid at Humboldt County's regional airport. When launched this Fall, the microgrid will be the first 100% renewable, multi-customer microgrid in California. Lehman and Schatz Center colleagues also led the development of a cutting-edge microgrid for Blue Lake Rancheria, which provides renewable electricity, lowers the Rancheria's energy costs, and supports clean energy jobs.

"Peter's life's work has been promoting clean and renewable energy, and he has done this with passion and focus. Over the years he has been a leader, mentor, and colleague to me and so many others. This award is very well deserved," says Schatz Center Director Arne Jacobson.

In 1979, Lehman came to HSU to develop the energy resources program within the Environmental Resources Engineering major. Together with colleague Bob Gearheart, he founded the International Development Technology graduate program, which has since evolved into the Energy, Technology & Policy program. He also worked with a group of students to found the Campus Center for Appropriate Technology – an innovative eco-demonstration house led by students – and served as its faculty advisor for the first 22 years.

The Clean Energy Hall of Fame award ceremony will be held virtually on December 10 at 2 p.m. The awards include the Lifetime Achievement award, four Clean Energy Champion awards, and the Youth Game-Changer award. Register for the event and learn more about the awardees.

Humboldt State University's Schatz Energy Research Center in Arcata, California develops clean and renewable energy technologies for implementation worldwide. Current projects and expertise include microgrid design, off-grid energy access, offshore wind feasibility, bioenergy assessment, and clean transportation.

Michael Davies-Hughes appointed county superintendent

HUMBOLDT COUNTY OFFICE OF EDUCATION EUREKA – At their special board meeting Oct. 25, the Humboldt County Board of Education appointed Michael Davies-Hughes to serve the remainder of Dr. Chris Hartley's term as Humboldt County Superintendent of Schools, through January 2023.

Coach. He has held many roles in the areas of educational leadership in Humboldt County, from serving as Assistant Principal of McKinleyville Middle School, and Principal at Morris Elementary School. Michael served as Superintendent of McKinleyville Union School District from 2012-2015, before joining Eureka City Schools as Assistant Superintendent of Educational Services for Eureka City Schools. Mr. Davies-Hughes holds awards as ACSA Region 1 Elementary Principal of the Year in 2011 to NorCal High School Cross Country Coach of the Year in 1996. He is a current member of professional organizations including Southwest Eureka Rotary Club, past Humboldt-Del Norte SELPA Policy Council where he served as Vice Chair from 2011-2015 and the Humboldt Area Saltwater Anglers, where he presently serves as board member. Michael's recent and significant philanthropic contributions include his achievement to successfully complete the "toughest bicycle race in the world" – the Race Across America. He has run the race twice, raising more than $15,000 for Hopecam, and organization whose mission is to overcome the social isolation experienced by children in treatment for cancer, in June 2021, and raising over $30,000 for the Humboldt County Office of Education's Early Literacy Partners Program in June 2018. Mr. Davies-Hughes' collaboration with local organizations, businesses and individuals were key to his success in both instances. In his written statement to the Humboldt County Board of Education, Michael stated, "My goal is to lead a dynamic team of skilled and committed staff at the Humboldt County Office of Education in the work of providing relevant and effective support to the school districts in Humboldt County, resulting in measurable and sustainable growth in academic achievement and college and career readiness for all students." Following the discussion, Board President, Thom McMahon said, "We had an open discussion, and the third motion passed by a 3-2 vote selecting Michael Davies-Hughes to the position." The vacancy was created when Humboldt County Office of Education Superintendent, Dr. Chris Hartley resigned to accept a deputy executive director position with the state advocacy group, the California Collaborative for Education Excellence. Davies-Hughes will be sworn into office on November 2, 2021 and will be up for re-election in the statewide general election in June 2022.

Crisis Intervention Team aims to improve response for people experiencing mental health crises

HUMBOLDT DHHS HUMBOLDT – Forty law enforcement officers and mental health service providers from agencies across the county participated in a four-day Crisis Intervention Team (CIT) training to learn strategies to better respond to people experiencing mental health crises.

The Humboldt County Department of Health & Human Services (DHHS) has been collaborating with law enforcement agencies and other community organizations to hold the state-certified CIT trainings since 2007.

Due to COVID-19, this is the first training of its kind to be held locally since October 2019.

CIT gives law enforcement officers and administrators tools to use in the field to identify major mental health disorders and support individuals in crisis. These tools can help de-escalate a crisis and divert those suffering from mental health challenges away from the criminal justice system and into treatment. Law enforcement professionals, service providers and nationally recognized experts led this week's training where participants learned tips on how to recognize when a person is experiencing a mental health crisis, what specific mental health disorders look like and how they may influence an interaction between an officer and someone in crisis. Participants were also taught techniques that can keep officers and subjects safe during an encounter and took a virtual tour of local mental health programs to increase awareness of available resources. Kelly Johnson, a senior program manager for DHHS's Behavioral Health Branch, said, "In light of everything that is going on with police reform, CIT is more crucial than ever.

Locally, during the pandemic DHHS Behavioral Health has seen an increase in requests from law enforcement for co-response of behavioral health professionals to assist with mental health crisis calls. Collaboration between Behavioral Health and law enforcement is essential to meeting the needs of our community." The Humboldt County Chapter of the National Alliance on Mental Illness (NAMI), Arcata and Eureka Police departments, the Humboldt County Sheriff's Office, the Public Defender's Office, the District Attorney's Office, Humboldt State University and DHHS collaborated to offer this year's CIT training. Following this training, more than 500 people have completed the course locally, including representatives from law enforcement agencies, law offices, parks systems, ambulance services, DHHS, tribes and medical facilities.

Eureka concerts return

EUREKA CHAMBER MUSIC SERIES
EUREKA – The Eureka Chamber Music Series returned in September with the launch of their four-concert subscription series, continuing a legacy of 27 years of classical chamber music concerts in Eureka. The first concert, which was performed this past September, featured Trio Duende with ECMS co-artistic director Tom Stone, Avery Fisher Career award winning cellist Sophie Shao, and Naumburg Award winning pianist Awadagin Pratt. The second concert weekend, taking place Saturday, Nov. 6 at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday, Nov. 7 at 5:00, will feature pianist Vladimir Feltsman, one of the world’s most thoughtful and probing performers. Concerts are held at Calvary Lutheran Church, 716 South Ave. in Eureka. Feltsman is a true sage of the keyboard, featured on 60 Minutes for his brave emigration to the US during the height of the cold war. These two concerts will show his broad range, with Nov. 6 being an evening of concert repertoire, and Nov. 7 an afternoon concert with conversation around Beethoven’s Op.33 Bagatelles. Eureka Chamber Music Series presents two more concerts during the winter months; Jan. 29 at 7:30 p.m. we welcome the Adler Fellows of the SF Opera, showcasing tomorrow’s greatest opera talent today, and March 26 at 7:30 p.m. the ECMS season finale features this year’s Grammy Award winning Pacifica Quartet, sure to thrill with some of the greatest music written for string quartet. New book looks at lighthouse lore

Julie Clark, who works for the Bureau of Land Management as a park ranger and is the author of Falk: Company Lumber Town of the American West in the Images of America Series, has been carefully and lovingly researching lighthouse lore for years. Many visitors to the Trinidad Head Lighthouse have seen her living history reenactment as Josephine Harrington, wife of Capt. Fred Harrington, Trinidad lighthouse keeper from 1888 to 1916. Julie’s just published Lighthouses of Humboldt County is available at Trinidad Museum, Eureka Books, the Humboldt County Historical Society and other local bookstores. On Sunday, Nov. 21 at noon, Julie will give a talk and sign books at Trinidad Museum, 400 Janis Ct., Trinidad. Reservations may be made by calling (707) 677-3816. Julie writes in her Introduction: “Dangerous coastal geography and conditions influenced the need for and immediate growth of lighthouses. Between 1850 and 1865, there were 25 wrecks and hundreds of drownings, including one of the most infamous wrecks in maritime history, the Brother Jonathan. In 1865, the Brother Jonathan, carrying 200 passengers from San Francisco to Portland, collided with St. George Reef near Crescent City, and 161 people drowned. This catastrophe, along with others, spurred funding and the need for

BEACONS Lighthouses of Humboldt County by Julie Clark. SUBMITTED PHOTO additional lighthouses in Humboldt County, starting with Cape Mendocino (established 1868), Trinidad Head (established 1871), Table Bluff (established 1892), and Punta Gorda (established 1911). These were not just lighthouses but also lighthouse stations, equipped with a Fresnel lens, fog signal building, lighthouse keeper dwellings, support structures such as barns, and most importantly, a lighthouse keeper and assistants.” The author continues, “Lighthouse keeping was not only a vocation but also a lifestyle and one that required appointment. It was restricted to persons between the ages of 18 and 50 who could read, write, and keep accounts. They were required to perform manual labor, pull and sail a boat, do minor repairs, and keep structures painted, whitewashed, and in working order. Most lighthouse keepers did not have nautical backgrounds but simply came for rewarding physical work. Theirs was a career that often spanned multiple generations with intermarriage between keepers and their families. By the 1950s, with advancing technology, lights became automated and keeping them became obsolete.” There is so much more to learn in Julie Clark’s 127 page book, full of rare photographs and documents. author-historian and 20-year Trinidad resident Jon Humboldt Gates wrote the foreword. Trinidad Head Lighthouse open Visit the lighthouse on the regular first Saturday opening between 10 a.m. and noon, courtesy of the Bureau of Land Management-California Coastal National Monument, Trinidad Museum docents, and the Trinidad Rancheria. Pedestrian access only. It’s about a 15 minute walk up Trinidad Head on the black-top pathway. Please keep your pet on a leash. This Saturday, Nov. 6 will be particularly lovely as a volunteer crew organized by Trinidad Coastal Land Trust-Bureau of Land Management spent last weekend cleaning, trimming and pulling invasive weeds. ‘Flea-Art’ comes to Town Hall Penny Gunn’s outdoor artisans market familiar to Sunday visitors near Murphy’s Market is going indoors for the winter. Penny’s “First Saturday Flea-Art” will begin on Saturday, Nov. 6 from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Town Hall. Vendors may purchase a table for the day to sell art, antiques, or quality vintage or gently used items. Contact Penny at (707) 834-8720 for information.

NUTCRACKER Taza Schaming with recently banded nutcracker.

WHITEBARK PINE & CLARK'S NUTCRACKERS Redwood Region Audubon Society invites you to an online presentation on Friday, Nov 12 at 7 p.m., titled "Clark's Nutcrackers and Whitebark Pine: Pivotal Players in our Western Mountains" with Taza Schaming. Whitebark pine and Clark's nutcrackers have a fascinating relationship: the trees provide rich, fatty seeds (with more calories per pound than chocolate), and the birds "plant" the trees' seeds. A single bird may hide up to 98,000 seeds in a year. These food caches help the birds get through the winter, and the leftovers grow into new trees. Whitebark pine is rapidly disappearing, largely due to mountain pine beetles and invasive blister rust. This problem is more urgent than it first seems because these high altitude pines and nutcrackers play critical roles in forest regeneration and ecosystem function. The whitebark pine provides high-energy seeds for many animal species, including grizzly bear, and they retain snow (and thus drinking water) on the upper slopes of the western mountains. The Clark's nutcracker disperses seed for at least ten other conifer species. Taza Schaming has been investigating the impact of the decline of whitebark pine on Clark's nutcrackers, studying the stability and resilience of the Clark's nutcracker-whitebark pine mutualism, to help ensure persistence of these species and the nutcracker's seed dispersal function. Visit rras.org to obtain the Zoom presentation link.

Author to discuss 'A Life in History'

HUMBOLDT COUNTY HISTORICAL SOCIETY
HUMBOLDT – The Humboldt County Historical Society presents "A Life in History" on Saturday, Nov. 6 at 2:30 p.m. with noted author and historian Ray Raphael.

Half-a-century past, Ray Raphael's first book, An Everyday History of Somewhere, featured interviews with old-timers in the backwoods of Northwest California. In works that followed, Edges, Tree Talk, and Cash Crop, he examined themes of regional interest around the stories of first-person informants.

Years later, when turning his attention to the Founding Era, he continued this approach with such books as A People's History of the American Revolution: How Common Peopled Shaped the Fight for Independence and Founders: The People Who Brought You a Nation.

Now, a certified old-timer at age 78, Raphael reverses his lens and interviews himself. How has history shaped him, and how has he helped shape history?

He reflects on his work in the peace and civil rights movements in the 1960s, his experience as a back-to-land settler in the 1970s and 1980s, and his effort, along with other teachers and historians, to make our national origin stories more inclusive.

History/herstory is an interconnected montage of individual experiences, each part of the whole. By placing his own story in historical context, Raphael offers a template for all of us to reflect on our life stories and place them in historical context. A list of his 20 books can be found on the book-list page of rayraphael.com.

The lecture will be hosted via Zoom by the Humboldt County Library and can be viewed from the safety and comfort of home on a personal computer, laptop, tablet or smartphone. The deadline to sign up for access to the lecture is 5 p.m. on Friday, Nov. 5. Upon registration, participants will receive the meeting ID and password.

Those interested in this lecture and others, can find information at the library website humlib.org by clicking on the calendar of events and finding the event listed on Saturday, Nov. 6. Assistance in signing up is available by phone at Humboldt County Library (707) 269-1915.
